The 2nd INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE of the JOURNAL SCUOLA DEMOCRATICA "REINVENTING EDUCATION" will be hosted online June 3 through 5 2021, by Scuola Democratica, Centro Interuniversitario per la Ricerca Didattica (University of Cagliari and University of Sassari), il Mulino. The challenges posed by the contemporary world have long required a rethinking of educational concepts, policies, and practices. The question about education 'for what' as well as 'how' and 'for whom' has become unavoidable and yet it largely remained elusive due to a tenacious attachment to the ideas and routines of the past which are now far off the radical transformations required of educational systems. Scenarios, reflections, and practices fostering the possibility of change towards the reinvention of the educational field as a driver of more general and global changes are centerstage topics at the Conference and will have a multidisciplinary approach from experts from different disciplinary communities, including sociology, pedagogy, psychology, economics, architecture, political science, etc. We hope with this opportunity to confirm the participation obtained at the first edition of the conference. Organizers, promoters and partners of the Conference wish to invite educators, teachers, researchers, scholars, academics, scientists, professionals, experts and policy makers to join the conversation and bring the disciplines toward

- promoting a trans and interdisciplinary discussion on urgent topics;
- fostering debates among experts and professionals;
- diffusing research findings all over international scientific networks and practitioners' mainstreams;
- launching further strategies and networking alliances on local, national and international scale;
- providing a new space for debate and evidence to educational policies.

We invite you to submit ABSTRACT/PAPER for your presentation at the Panel session:

A.4 WHAT IS THE AIM OF EDUCATION?

Convenors

Massimo Baldacci (Università di Urbino)

Keywords

education; aim; globalization; neoliberalism ; hegemony

The issue regarding the aim of education has received partial solutions, merely philosophical or purely sociological.

Education Philosophy has often had an abstract and statutory approach to the problem of educational aims enunciating them in a general and a- historical way.

Social studies have often simply described the measurable changes occurred in school results linking them to economic and political factors.

It seems necessary to allow interaction between these two different approaches to re-define the debate regarding the aim of education with respect to a new historic phase.

In the past twenty years a new phase of social and historical development characterized by economic globalization and the hegemony of neoliberalism has taken place. Because of this new phase it is necessary to elaborate a discourse on the aims of education that is not purely abstract and a-historical, but that is informed about the ongoing social changes. In other words, the new aims of education must result from analysing the historic situation even though they have to maintain their statutory function.

This does not mean that the above mentioned aims must be adjusted and conformed to the situation; on the contrary, these aims must act as a factor contributing to the development of the situation in place.

Therefore, it is necessary to provide an outcome to the following problems:

- 1-Does the new historic phase require a restatement of the aims of education? (or is it enough to just re-mention the classical aims expressed by the philosophy of education?)
- 2-In case of a positive answer: what restatement of the aims of education regarding the historic and social phase in place?
